

When it comes to getting new customers, do you have a suicide pact with your competitors?

A Timely Message from Jay Siff, CEO, MOVING TARGETS NEW RESIDENT DIRECT MARKETING

Not too long ago, the owner of a 12-unit retail chain asked me if I was in the “advertising business.” Sort of, I answered, but what I’m really in is the warm body business.

At Moving Targets, warm bodies mean hot-to-trot customers for you.

In particular, our job is to bring you lots of brand new customers. Warm bodies that just moved from somewhere else, that want and need what you have to sell—that are ready to make your place their place.

We reach these new neighbors with personal letters and irresistible gift certificates—often before your competitors know they’re in town.

Yet most “new business” programs (newspaper coupons, co-op mailings and similar promotions) do nothing but recycle the same old customers. Like a round-robin swap meet, bargain-hunters go from Store A to Store B to Store C, always chasing the last great moneysaving “deal.”

What’s really crazy is that lots of retailers spend money stealing customers from others, then lose money when others steal ’em back! I think such a screwy new-business strategy has got to be mutually suicidal.

At Moving Targets, we generate fresh, appreciative, GENUINELY NEW customers—likely to be your loyal regulars for years to come. That’s why thousands of small store owners have turned to us for help!

Many of the big chains, too, have put us on their “recommended” lists. I like to think that our phenomenal growth—as well as our spectacular 87% SUCCESS RATE—stem from my being a businessman, not an adman.

Before starting Moving Targets, I spent 25 years owning and managing small businesses. I know how easy it is to get “suckered in” to costly but ineffective promotions. And, worse, to be locked-in to legal contracts you can’t break without big penalties!

That’s why I simply won’t allow Moving Targets to set any minimums, to ask for any written contracts, or to assess any startup charges or discontinuation fees. And I insist that our advertisers must be able to FIRE US anytime they think we deserve firing!

I have made our success totally dependent on YOUR SUCCESS—and the huge success of our low-cost mailing program speaks for itself.

Give us a call at 800-926-2451—and we’ll send you names, addresses, and telephone numbers of 101 actual customers for you to check out. We’ll also enclose samples and full details.
